pronences to diaregard a "alight cold" is particularly striking. This minor aliment is, however, a predecessor of la grippe, a maiady which when developed of the most tatal character, as mortuary statistics attest. After a chil, or when the premonitory symptoms of influence-such as seering and shivering, anceceded by forerishness and dryness of the skin—are perceptible, immediate recourse should be had to Hostetter's Stomach Bitter, a genial accelerator of the blood's circulation, which diffuses an agreeable, healthful warmth through the system inducive of perspiration, by means of which the complaint is expedied through the pores and its further tendency counteracted. Wonderfully efficiency, to the fitters for maiaria, constipation, liver complaint, rheumatism and kidney trouble. A winegassul before retiring induces health-yielding sleep.
